Dangers of Cholera Morbus.

In almost every neighborhood some one has died from an attack of cholera morbus before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. Every family should be prepared for such an emergency.
Mrs. E. M. Snyder, Herkimer, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago my husband had an attack of cholera morbus. I gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it relieved the pain immediately, and two or three doses of it effected a cure." For sale by all

SOUTHERN ILL.
GOSSIP BY A
NEWSPAPER MAN

Some Things That May Be True, Others Not So Certain About, None Vouched For.

An Anna capitalist is said to be wearing an Irish potato for a watch-charm. How extravagant.

The Marion Press says the people in that county shouldn't complain of it being so dry as they all voted dry last spring.

Up at Mt. Vernon, Judge (sternly)—"The next person who cheers will be expelled from the court." Prisoner—"Harrish!"

W. J. Happy of Cairo, is said to have inherited a fortune of $200,000.
It now ought to be easy for him to live up to his name.

A coal miner fell down a shaft in St. Clair county Saturday without being injured. He would make excellent ballast for an airship.

A new woman has been discovered in Mt. Carmel. The defendant in a divorce suit is described as a combination of vixen and angel.

A Gallatin county farmer was killed by officers one day last week when he refused to be arrested. Another case of cutting off the nose to spite the face.

A Randolph county man committed suicide last week because he had a cold in his head. No doubt some friend of his advised him to try that remedy.

A Belleville man fell from a three-story building the other night while walking in his sleep. The coroner held an inquest and the man is still sleeping.

If the governors of North and South Carolina should happen to make a tour of Egypt now, they certainly would think it was a long time between drinks.—Marion Press.

That Marion county man who is about to establish a skunk farm would delight the people in his vicinity if he would operate a perfume factory in connection with the same.

Spuds are becoming more dignified every day. They dissolved partnership with the common people several days ago and now they are getting beyond reach of the moneyed class.

It is said that dancing makes girls' feet larger and that ice cream makes freckles. Doctors are of the opinion that hanging on the front gate produces rheumatism. A few more opinions like these and the girls won't have any fun left them.

A long article telling of a Marion county man establishing a skunk farm was sent in to the St. Louis papers from DuQuoin last week.
After reading the article we immediately recognized the familiar scat. The DuQuoin man is authority on skunks and his article made interesting reading.

Edward Frick, one of our good farmer friends, who resides just south of town on the road to the water works, came to town last week to do some shopping, says the Waterloo Times. After making his purchases and just as he was about to enjoy the luxury of a shave, he heard a commotion in his buggy and upon investigation, discovered that one of his hens flew into the rig at home and kept quiet until it reached town and after laying a fresh egg of course advertised the event in the manner usual to hens. Edward tied the hen, oiled the egg and after enjoying his shave, wended his way homeward with his property.—Benton Built up by the noted attorney the testimony of the physician promises to stir all Paris.

The physician who may be called has declared that Calmette's wounds were not fatal; that had the most elementary precautions been taken his life might have been saved and that he would have been discharged from the hospital in 10 days or two weeks.

The court room being filled to capacity, great crowds gathered outside the Palace of Justice today. As Caillaux arrived, mingled cheers and hisses greeted him. Smiling upon those who participated in the friendly demonstration, but disdainfully refusing to take notice of the others, the former Minister whose position in the trial has become almost as prominent as that of his wife, hurried from his auto to the court room.

Pierre Mortier, editor of Le Bas, yesterday corroborated previous evidence as to the overwrought nerves of Mme. Caillaux and to her knowledge that the Figaro was about to publish sensational revelations. He was followed by three other journelists: M. du Barry, editor of Journal

E. Republicain; Albert Livet manager of the Radical, and Robert le Court, editor of the Courrier du Parlement, who declared that they had been informed that the Figaro intended to publish other letters after the "Thy Joe" letter, but when pressed by the presiding judge and M. Chenu for the names of their informants they sheltered themselves behind the plea of "professional secrecy."

The distinguished scientist, Paul Painleve, declared he had been told by Gaston Drayfus, a banker, that the Figaro was going to publish a number of private letters. Leon Bailly, editor of Intransigent, related how M. Calmette had read the Fabre report on the Rochette affair at a dinner of a few friends, saying as he replaced it in his pocketbook:
"I always keep it on me; one never knows what may happen."

Mme. Madeleine Guillemard, a lifelong friend of Mme. Caillaux, who saw her on the night before the tragedy, said: "She was quite calm. In my opinion, her act was unconscious. She never intended to kill."

Mme. Caillaux interposed and said that Mme. Guillemard was the only person to whom she had shown the two letters and Mme. Guillemard would bear her out that they were perfectly correct in tone and the letters of a well-bred man.

"That I swear to," answered the witness, raising her hand.
One of the last witnesses was Adel Bonnard of the staff of the Figaro, who produced a letter in which M. Calmette asked him to express deep regret to Mme. Gueydan (M. Caillaux's first wife) that he had been forced to use her letter.

Caillaux Gets Ovation

As M. Caillaux left the court at the close of the hearing many hands were outstretched to him. Some were those of acquaintances and others of total strangers. He seemed deeply touched by this manifestation of sympathy and exclaimed in a voice shaken with real emotion:

"I see I still have some friends left."

A small crowd assembled outside the main gates of the building to see M. Caillaux depart. They gave him a rousing cheer, mingled with a few hisses. M. Caillaux, accompanied by Deputy Passal Cecoldi, went to the Conciergerie and spent an hour with his wife. Meanwhile, on the opposite side of the court building, close to the statue of Henry IV on the Pont-Neuf, a small crowd awaiting in vain to see the ex-Premier began to discuss the case and soon came to blows. A police squad dispersed the rioters.

Geneva, Switzerland, July 23.— Pleasant A. Stovall, United States Minister to Switzerland, said yesterday that the reports from Washington that the State Department had invited navyless Switzerland to send warships to the opening of the Panama Canal are untrue.
No invitation has been presented through the Berne legation and the Swiss Federal authorities also declare they know nothing of the matter.

candidates, even when voting for

CONFERENCE ON
ULSTER MATTERS
IS DEADLOCKED

It is Believed That the Buckingham Peace Conferences Are at an End.

London, July 23.—The Buckingham Palace conferences looking toward an agreement upon the home rule bill amendments are believed to be near an end. When the Government, opposition, Nationalist and Unionist leaders convened again today it was generally believed they had gathered for their last meeting.
They are hopelessly deadlocked, it is declared, as to the territory that shall be excluded from the operations of the home rule measure.

A "clean cut" of Ulster is still the demand of Sir Edward Carson. He insists that the counties of Tyrone and Fermanagh be included among those which shall not be represented in the Dublin Parliament.

John Redmond, it is declared, stands firm in his refusal to concede more than Premier Asquith has offered in permitting a referendum vote.

A suffragette caused more trouble today just before the reconvening of the rule conference. The woman had followed the Government leaders and when they had entered went around to the visitors' entrance.
There she ran up the steps and threw herself prostrate, screaming "Votes for women!"

MRS. ASTOR SPENDS 40c
BUYS SEATS FOR MOVIES
FOR PARTY OF FOUR

Bar Harbor, Me., July 23.—Society has found a new diversion.
Dancing and dinners have been discarded for the "movies." Every night a long line of automobiles can be seen in front of a theatre. Last evening from one of the automobiles stepped Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs.
William H. Force, Miss Katherine E.
Force and her fiance Henry Har-tingel. The four seats cost Mrs. Astor just 40 cents.

Good for the Animals.
"A great many people come here Sunday?" "Yes," answered the keeper in the zoo. "And I'm so glad of it.
It seems to sort of cheer the animals up to see a crowd."

CAMPAIGN WILL
TEST STRENGTH
ILLINOIS WOMEN

Will Have Privilege of Voting For State and County Officers For
First Time

Chicago, July 23.—The women of Illinois will undergo their first real test as a political factor in the coming campaign. In the April elections they voted for city offices, but on Nov. 8, they will have the additional privilege of voting for county, state and national officers.

The officers for whom the electorate of the whole State will vote are: State Treasurer, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Clerk of the Supreme Court, three trustees of the University of Illinois and United States Senator. All counties and several cities will provide several offices to be filled.

The municipal elections last spring afforded little opportunity for professional politicians to get a line on the women's voting strength, as one alderman was elected from each
